New York City Opera Performance In Bryant Park

Cinderella In The Park

New York City, 14.06.2017, 17:42 Time

USPA NEWS - Beautiful performance set on a beautiful backdrop provided by Bryant Park. Many who flocked to the park were treated to a late afternoon and early evening opera performance.

In the midst of the hustle and fast pace of midtown Manhattan, we came to the oasis of lovely and lush scenery provided by Bryant Park, for the New York City Opera's performance of "Cinderella" by Gioachino Rossini. The outdoor presentation was simply beautiful! Much credit goes to the singers, staff, and the audience for enduring a sweltering heat index over 100 degrees. Upon the opera's end, we joined in a well-deserved round of applause to the artists, who, in full costume and make-up, managed a flawless delivery. Below are a few images captured from the afternoon event.

After the performance we had the opportunity to meet with some of the talented singers, and staff who put on a wonderful production. Again, it must be noted that everyone in attendance displayed great composure considering the mid-afternoon heat that was upon us. Members of the audience were graciously granted access to the singers after the performance for photos and plenty of smiles.
